Universal Screening Overview

Goals of Universal Screening

- Evaluate current skills
- Predict future achievement
- Assess learning growth
- Proactively and equitably identify appropriate level of support for each student

Traits of Effective Universal Screening Tools

Brief + Simple

Does the tool inform instruction? Can teachers easily administer the tool and interpret its data?

Unbiased

Has the tool been found to be unbiased in its content and resulting data?

Valid + Reliable

Is the data predictive of future outcomes?

Accurate

Does the data accurately identify students in need of additional support?

Screening for Social, Emotional, and Behavioral (SEB) Challenges

Similar to data from academic screening tools, data from universal behavior screening tools can be used in tiered systems of support to:

- ✓ Detect students for whom Tier 1 efforts may be insufficient
- ✓ Inform teacher-delivered, low intensity supports
- ✓ Connect students with evidenced-based Tier 2 and 3 supports

Different Universal Screening Tools

	Social-Emotional Competency	Behavior
Measures...	social-emotional strengths and challenges	major behavioral challenges of childhood and adolescence
Assesses the frequency and strength of...	social-emotional skills	externalizing and internalizing behaviors
Data guides the implementation of...	SEL programs and teaching practices	targeted behavioral health interventions and classroom management strategies
An example is...	the DESSA	the SRSS-IE

Documenting Family Communication

The screenshot shows a student profile for Alayah Abell, 12th Grade (17 yrs old). The 'Family Communication' tab is highlighted with a red box. Below the profile, there is a large white box with a red border containing the text 'Family Communication' and a green circular icon with a white plus sign. The main content area shows 'Benchmark & Universal Screeners' with a table of assessment results.

I shared the student's SRSS-IE data and how externalizing behaviors are quite prevalent with her parents. They provided ideas on what has worked with previous teachers in previous grades, and we made a plan to support her.

We are concerned that teachers are over-reporting the number of students in their classrooms who are at high risk with the intention of having these students removed from their classrooms. How can we ensure that ratings are fair and unbiased?

Our school has far too many students identified as needing intervention than we can adequately support. What do we do now?

How can we encourage our educators to use low-intensity embedded strategies?

Are Tier 1 supports being implemented with fidelity?

Are students with the highest needs being prioritized for support?

Where is support most needed?

How can we leverage community partnerships to support our learners?

Why do we have to do this again?
Why is it recommended to do SEB screening 2 to 3 times across a school year? Do teachers really need to assess all students each time?
